Life in Corvallis

Nestled in the heart of the Willamette Valley, Corvallis is an ideal location to work, live and raise a family.

Within easy driving distance of mountains, rivers and the famed Oregon Coast, opportunities abound for outdoor enthusiasts such as camping, hiking, mountain biking, kayaking and skiing. As an added bonus, Oregon's two largest cities and cultural centers — Portland and Eugene — are close by.

Meanwhile, the tree-lined city of about 55,000 residents has earned the reputation as one of the best cities in the nation to call home — though many who live here wish that distinction did not attract so much publicity!

Life in Corvallis offers:

- A public school district with a history of excellence. The Corvallis School District boasts some of the highest Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores in the nation.
- Numerous activities for children and families, including dance, theater, music, sports, the arts and much more.
- Oregon State University, a premier research facility offering bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in a variety of fields including forestry, agriculture, fisheries, engineering, electronics, home economics, liberal arts and the sciences. Not to mention the cultural richness the university brings to the city!
- Bike and pedestrian friendly streets.
- A vibrant downtown, featuring an independent movie theater, two community theaters, independent book stores and compelling shopping and dining experiences.
- A thriving art community featuring numerous galleries and a dynamic art center.
- A growing cluster of esteemed micro-breweries within the city and over a dozen beloved wineries dotted throughout the county.
- Popular farmers' markets that bring together local organic growers and lovers of good fresh food.
- A healthy local sports scene — boasting the OSU Beavers, school and community sports for kids and adults, an aquatic center with an indoor Olympic-size pool and outdoor water park, numerous 5K and 10K runs, and more.
- Much anticipated annual events such as da Vinci Days, a delightful celebration of art, science and technology; and Corvallis' premier arts and entertainment event, the Fall Festival.
- And a whole lot more. Check out www.visitcorvallis.com!
