The purpose of the Administrative Fellowship Advisory Committee (AFAC) is to guide each Administrative Fellow through their SHS Fellowship experience and create core competencies for the program.

The AFAC will have oversight of the following:

- Program structure
- Develop strategic plans for Fellowship revision and growth
- Serve as a liaison between the Fellowship and SHS Senior Executive Council (SEC) to continually spread knowledge on the purpose and value of training Fellows
- Support the preceptors of rotations through the development of Preceptor Bootcamp annually
- Lead the selection process of incoming candidates annually

Liberty Pertiwi came to Samaritan Health Services as an administrative fellow for the 2016-2017 year. As a fellow she worked on many projects including provider wellness, 340B, and the development of the Samaritan Treatment and Recovery Services. After her fellowship and finding a special interest in clinic operations, Pertiwi went on to becoming a clinic manager over several medicine sub-specialties. She is currently the operations director of primary care practices in Lebanon. Her education includes a bachelor’s degree in health care management and policy from the Oregon State University and a Master’s degree in Healthcare Administration from The George Washington University. As a native Oregonian, she is fortunate to be delivering health care to the Samaritan community.
Alexandra Kreusser served as the administrative fellow at Samaritan Health Services during the 2018-2019 year. Before coming to Samaritan, Allie earned her bachelors degree in dietetics from California State University, Chico and then continued on to earn her Master’s degree in Public Health with an emphasis in Health Management and Policy from Oregon State University. During her fellowship, she completed a number of different projects including an audit of NCAA compliance with Samaritan’s Sports Medicine Clinic, workforce projections, and served on the Employee Engagement Committee and Wellness Council throughout her experience. During her rotations she quickly discovered that her passion is in operations. Allie is currently the operations manager for Samaritan Athletic Medicine and Samaritan Medical Group Orthopedics – Albany.
Lacy Bogart joined Samaritan Health Services as the administrative fellow for the 2019-2020 year. As a fellow, she worked on many projects including the implementation of Schwartz Center Rounds, provider compensation audits and the labor pool coordinator within the Incident Command Center at Good Samaritan Regional Medical Center in response to COVID-19. Before coming to Samaritan, she earned her bachelor’s degree with double majors in integrative physiology and ecology, and evolutionary biology at the University of Colorado, Boulder. She then went on to complete her MBA with an emphasis in Healthcare Administration in Denver. She came into her fellowship with a high interest in risk management and is currently the enterprise risk program manager.
Kellie joined Samaritan Health Services in 2013 and worked as a physical therapist in the outpatient rehabilitation clinic at Samaritan Pacific Communities Hospital. She completed her MHA in 2020 and was the administrative fellow for the 2020-2021 academic year. Kellie earned her Doctorate in Physical Therapy from Pacific University and her Master’s in Healthcare Administration with an emphasis in strategic innovation and change management from Colorado State University. During her fellowship, she completed several different projects, including serving as a project manager to the 2021 E/M Coding Changes and the SPRS 2.0 projects, a member of the SHS housing strategy workgroup, conducted a review of scheduling efficiency for an outpatient service line and assisted Samaritan Medical Group with clinic space planning. Kellie is currently the phys rehab strategic initiatives program manager.
